Retiree Reporting: Check Grandfathered Status

Retirees who were working part-time for an NHRS participating employer prior to January 1, 2019 – and who remained employed on that date – are allowed to work a maximum of 1,664 hours per calendar year, provided that they remain in at least one of the position(s) they held on that date. Employers were required to provide the names and position title(s) of these retirees to NHRS in early 2019.

Employers are required to annually check the list of grandfathered retirees in the Data Reporting System (DRS) and verify that these retirees remain in the same position(s) they held on January 1, 2019. This review should be completed no later than February 15 each year.

1. To view the Grandfathered list, log into the DRS. Click Grandfathered Retirees under the Retiree Reporting section of the menu.

2. A screen will appear listing each Grandfathered retiree associated with the employer. It will show their name, last four digits of their SSN, and benefit type.
